SINCE 1764

Arnold & Son's presence with Northrop & Johnson at events like the Singapore Yacht Show serves a triple purpose. First, it gives the brand direct access to a prestigious target group of refined luxury connoisseurs. Second, it is a perfect opportunity for the company to highlight a history in which its founder John Arnold and his son, Roger, played a leading role in developing a reliable means of determining longitude at sea. Third, and perhaps most importantly, it provides the brand with a glamorous platform for its exquisite high-end products and new launches. Two of this year's favourites included the Nebula, which, as its name suggests, features custom bridges in a reverse star pattern resembling the Crab Nebula, and the Constant Force Tourbillon, a high-end timepiece that combines extreme precision and a true beat seconds.
